

Broccoli Rudolph Extra Early Sprouting

Latin Name

Brassica oleracea italica

Pack Size

Approx. 3g Seeds

Broccoli Rudolph Extra Early Sprouting is a purple broccoli variety. Their harvest can start as early as October. Produces generous spears of purple broccoli stems, with dark green foliage. Cut the main head early on in the season for on-going side heads.

Sow Indoors

February-March

Sow Outdoors

March-June

Harvest

January-April/
 November-December

J	F	M	A	M	J	J	A	S	O	N	D
□	■	■	□	□	□	□	□	□	□	□	□
□	□	■	■	■	■	□	□	□	□	□	□
■	■	■	■	□	□	□	□	□	□	■	■

Sowing Instructions

Sow seeds in a pot or seed tray. Once seedlings have grown some, pinch out the top of the plant to the first set of leaves and transplant into a larger pot for growing.

When growing outside, make sure all stones, rocks, and large clumps of dirt have been removed and add fertilizer. These plants are safe to transplant outside when they reach about 5-9cm tall. Grow in rows and ensure the soil stays moist.

Cover with a mesh fleece to keep out birds and pests. Can be sown in spring or in autumn, depending on when you'd like to harvest them. An earlier sowing means an earlier harvest.

Days to harvest to maturity

90 days.

Tips

Pick regularly to encourage a continuous flowering throughout the season.